BUILDING—There is always room at the top," said Daniel Webster, in speaking of the local profession. Is this not likewise true of all the professions, all business enterprises? Getting to the top is usually a matter of time, and energy, and skill and ability. Built in a day, the building, like the city, Oklahoma, for example, is a rare phenomenon. "Room was not built in a day," wrote some author. The profession of building, like law, medicine, and all the other sciences, old though they be, are yet in the stages of the "building" and the real "builders" of these ancient-modern structures are the men on the "top" of their respective towers. We, also, claim to be "builders." This mercantile business, great as it is, continues to build higher and higher. We keep pace with the wants and needs of the public.

HELP FOR THE NEEDY

Topeka Victim of the Money Lenders is Rescued by Legal Advisers.

Loan sharks will continue to be prosperous and find victims in Topeka as long as no governmental aid is offered to the poor along money lending lines, according to Louis Lloyd, secretary of the President association. A case came to light this week where a man borrowed $50 for six months and after five had elapsed, gave the lender $12.50. He had borrowed again $20 for four months, agreeing to return $42, when legal advisers got hold of his case.

Two bills providing for a fund to lend to poor people without financial rating have been defeated in the legislature, says Mr. Lloyd, and at present there is no relief for the poor man as there is in Kansas City, where small sums can be borrowed with the household furniture given as security and at a low rate of interest.

There is no need of a man's falling into the clutches of a Topeka loan shark, says Mr. Lloyd. A legal aid committee, consisting of E. L. O'Neill, T. F. Garver and W. F. Schoch, is always ready to help the victim out.

EXAMS NEXT WEEK

Pupils of the Rural Schools Will Pass Through the Ordeal Before Christmas.

Five thousand, seven hundred and twenty-two school children in Shawnee county, Topeka city schools excluded, will knit their brows and battle with the most dreaded jinx of a school child's life next Friday and Saturday, when the bi-monthly grade and common school examinations will be given.

The examinations are to be given a week early on account of the Christmas programs which the schools will give. The examination questions were mailed from the office of John F. Ely, county superintendent, today.

DANCER WEARS COAT OF MAUVE VELVET

Florence Walton and new mauve velvet coat.

Florence Walton likes fur and when Lady Duff Gordon designed this evening coat for her, she more than gratified the dancer's desires in this regard. The coat is of mauve velvet, lined with perruche blue shot satin. The edging of the coat, the cape, cuffs and boot tops are of dyed squirrel.

Heart and Beauty Problems

Written for the State Journal

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please give me a remedy for freckles?

(2) If a married man who is driving a five-passenger automobile passes a young married woman and invites her to ride as far as he is going, should she sit in the front seat with him or ride in the back seat. There are no other passengers. These two are neighbors and have known each other for quite a few years. (It is a chance meeting.)

(3) The "Young Housewife" who wishes a remedy for heat spots on a table will try rubbing fresh lard on the white spots caused by hot dishes. She will find the spots will disappear. The lard should be rubbed in lightly with the finger tips. If the spots do not vanish in a few minutes, or if they are very bad, the lard should be left on a few hours or even all day and over night if necessary. The lard will not harm the finish of the table and I have never yet seen the heat spot removed by any other method.

(4) Two drams of zinc ointment, one and three-quarters drams of dextrose, one and a half drams of glycerine. Spread this paste upon the freckles at night before going to bed. In the morning remove what remains with a little powdered borax and almond oil.

(5) She should sit in the front seat.

(6) Thank you for the answer to "Young Housewife."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl thirteen years old. I am in my last year at grammar school. I have sisters, one of whom is one year my junior. Every morning after breakfast or any time during the day she makes some excuse to get outdoors so that she will not have to help me. I make me very cross at my mother and then she says things that she ought not to say. I feel as though I don't want to do anything. I know my sister is younger than I am, but it makes me angry just the same when she does not try to help. When my mother tells me to do things I feel like answering her back. I do not go out nights and have no boy friends. Please tell me what you think of this.

If you refuse to let conditions ruin your disposition you will turn out a happier and more capable woman than your sister. While they are playing you are learning to do things that will be of use to you all your life. Work cheerfully and without complaint for a selfish reason if no other. Hard thoughts make a hard, disagreeable face, while sunny, tolerant thoughts make the face sweet and lovable. If you are kind and gentle to your mother she may not ask you to do so much work.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I met a boy here in this city two years ago. This boy showed great interest in me and I did in him also. Before the boy left the next morning he came up to my house to see me. When he left he wrote me letters every week. Last year he came down to see me and we had a good time. When this boy left he did not write until two weeks later. In his letter he excused himself by saying that he was busy. In return I did not answer him and about three weeks later and made no excuse. He did not answer this letter and I did not write any more. Later I wrote him a card and said only: "Are you a good guesser?" He wrote back and asked if he was right. Then I denied sending the card. Later he sent me a New Year's card and I answered it. Since then I've heard nothing. I want to correspond with this boy again because I like him better than any one else. Can you tell me how I can get him to correspond with me?

F. D. D.

The boy will write if he wants to. There is nothing you can do to make him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 19 and kept company with a young man of 23. A long time ago we parted, never to see each other again, although we live in the same city. I love him and I don't know whether he loves me or not. Please tell me if it is right for me to love him.

BLUE-EYED GIRL.

If the man loved you he would come to you regardless of your agreement never to see each other again. The sensible thing for you to do is to forget him. Force him out of your thoughts. In time, if your mind is open to new opportunities, you will meet someone else you can love.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a very beautiful girl that lives in this town. She is also wealthy and so nice that she makes every fellow wildly in love with her. If she only looks at you under those dark lashes of hers you feel like getting down on your knees. She is twenty and ever since she was sixteen she has been asked many times to marry and has always refused. I want to ask her now and I try every way I can to have her love me and as I have considerable money myself she ought to be very happy. Could you advise me what to do so as to have "yes" for my answer?

A LOVER.

Don't be so sentimental. The girl isn't a goddess or an angel and she will not love you as long as you consider her as such. Popular girls like the men who are indifferent to them. Let her show marked signs of wanting you before you dare to propose.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) "My face, when I got over the measles, was left with a humor. It has a scaly breaking out. I have tried using hot bolse soap but found it does no good. Can you tell me what to do?"

(2) Last winter I went to some silly kissing parties. At the first one I had a good time, but after that the boys did not notice me and I became a wall-flower. From some I came home alone. This winter I am not going to any parties. Do you blame me? Would you go and overcome this?

Here is a new fall suit of chiffon, broadcloth and fur. The coat is of broadcloth, trimmed with wide bands of fur. The broadcloth skirt has a double tunic of chiffon; the long tunic is edged with broadcloth, and the short V shaped tunic is finished with wide bands of fur. A lace hat and slippers are worn.

(3) What can I do to make myself more attractive in company?

(4) Are girls fourteen too young to go to evening parties and suppers when boys come home with them?

BIRCH BARK BABY.

(1) See a doctor at once.

(2) Kissing parties are decidedly cheap. I think it will be wise to stay away.

(3) I certainly would not try to make myself liked by people who play kissing games. Aim higher.

(4) Enter into the spirit of things. Have as good a time as you can yourself and help others to have a good time. Keep your eyes open. That means keep your clothes neat, your hair well combed and your skin clean looking.

(5) Yes, they are too young.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My husband is in the penitentiary and my mother wants me to get a divorce. But I love my husband and he loves me, and we have two children. But my mother says the disgrace is killing her, and she is after me all of the time until I am nearly crazy. So please tell me what you think about this.

C. B. A.

Your loyalty to your husband in the time of his disgrace will probably do more to reform him than the prison life will do. Your mother has lived her life in her own way, probably. Tell her that you must be allowed to live your own life in your own way, and that this way includes faith in your husband's better nature, and that you intend to give him another chance to be the right kind of a father to his little children.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sixteen and wish to have your advice. I met a fellow one afternoon. He was walking past our house and played a joke on me by asking where a certain number was. Then afterward he said he wanted to know the names of the people and he also said he came down on purpose to know me. I have found out that this fellow is very well known. He has asked me for a great many dates, but I have refused him, as I am talked of as a very well known girl. I think I am a great deal of a fellow. Please tell me how I can go places with him and how to get him back again, as he has dropped me since I have refused him.

INQUISITIVE.

The young man took a very unconventional way of getting acquainted. I pay my board, have some money in the bank and didn't scribble myself by getting it. I had no other reason but that I wanted him to have one, as I knew nearly all the boys in high school had one. Now his mother won't let him wear it. She says that it is a sign of engagement. Please tell me if it is and if his mother is doing right.

GIRLIE FRIEND.

Conventions go contrary to some of the finest, sweetest impulses we have and say that we must not do what we want to do so much. You should not have given the boy the ring, because neither boys nor girls accept jewelry from each other unless they are engaged. The ring was not a sign of engagement, however, because men do not wear engagement rings. His mother has a right to insist that he accept nothing that would put him under obligation to you. A boy of seventeen is not old enough to show attention to a special girl, because he is sure to change his mind.

Did I do right?

This boy works all through his vacations and pays his board to his parents, and with money he has over he gets his clothes and books. I wanted him to have a ring very badly, because he is so careful of his hands and keeps them so nice. I know he would be proud of one and so I bought him a nice ring for his birthday. I have a good position and make good money. I pay my board, have some money in the bank and didn't scribble myself by getting it. I had no other reason but that I wanted him to have one, as I knew nearly all the boys in high school had one. Now his mother won't let him wear it. She says that it is a sign of engagement. Please tell me if it is and if his mother is doing right.
